

Tears of a Warrior

*This is not going to be an easy one to write
For my words to do it justice
I'll need to do it just right
See if I may paint you a picture
Of just what is going off inside
Of me each and every day
I awake to once again see the sun rise
High into another beautiful sky
So please let me try to begin to find
Those words I need to let you see deep down inside*

*It is what only those who are gone
In the past in this, what I call, life
Every one of you at one time or another
Has seen me cry
Not many of you has not seen tears
Flow from these here eyes
As the older I get the easier it is
For me to break down to tears and cry
To me that is no big deal
At this time in my life*

*But those tears you all have seen
At one point or time
Were never for the reasons
You thought
Those were from the pain
Carried deep down inside
Of this torn heart of mine
All those I saw dying
In my arms or by my side
The tearing of their flesh
The breaking of their bones
The burning of their blood and flesh*

*But even more so the ringing
In my ears from all their cries
This is what it is like
And the kinds of pain
That is carried deep down inside
Where this torn Heart of mine lies
This is from who you get to see when
Those tears I will from time to time
Let flow from these eyes of mine
Not for the here and now
But for all those yesterdays
I had to let pass me by
At those places and times
That are long gone from this life of mine*

*But with the night's darkness
I once again go back with all
Those who I had taken life
To walk with those I knew
That had died at those times
They are all the pain
I will forever carry
With me inside my heart
That from those times
Has been torn apart
Like so many others who have taken
One of those walks
Into the fields of battle of war
Tears Of A Warrior
Starts*

*Written By
R.C. Keckler
10/06/06*

